INDICES

BILL INDEX .....	109
GENERAL INDEX .....	110

"Between the dream and the reality, between the motion and the act, falls the shadow."

- T.S. Eliot

In each legislative session, a scant handful of the hundreds of bills, memorials and resolutions that are introduced tend to cast a shadow over the session. The issues raised by that legislation are usually high-profile, headline-stealing issues that may define the session for years to come. The 2014 session was something of an exception, with discussions in the Roundhouse dominated not by high-profile bills but, rather, by the obscure but important method of precisely how public schools are funded – specifically, how much money is appropriated "above the line" versus "below the line".

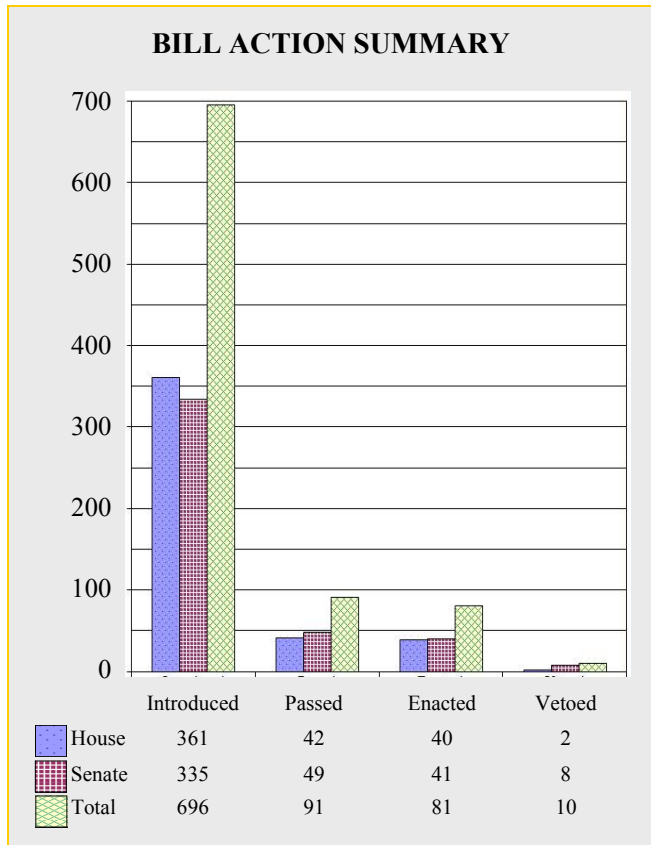

Before the session opened, it appeared as though the legislature and governor were reasonably close in their budget recommendations, but it was equally apparent that they were miles apart on the critical issue of how much education funding should flow through the funding formula, or "above the line", and how much should be available to individual school districts, or "below the line".

Another shadow soon emerged: the prospect that two Democratic members of the house of representatives would not attend the session because of illness. This made the margin in an already closely divided house of representatives razor thin, and it would become a factor in the education funding debate and in several debates on other issues.

The primary task each 30-day session is to craft a state budget. Traditionally, the budget begins as House Bill 2, and 2014 was no different in that respect. However, largely because of the inability to reach an agreement on above- and below-the-line funding for education, and with the absence of the two excused house members, the budget proposal failed to pass the house on a 34-34 tie vote.

As time wound down in the session, the senate developed and unanimously passed a compromise budget proposal, which received overwhelming support in the house. The $6.1 billion budget represents an increase of slightly more than 4% over fiscal year 2014 appropriations and features modest increases in public school funding and higher education funding, as well as salary adjustments for many, but not all, state employees. The governor signed the budget after using her line-item veto power to trim $27 million from the bill.

Another issue presenting itself before the 2014 session was the likelihood that the Lottery Tuition Fund would run out of money if the legislature did not address the fact that the popular program has been spending more money than it has been taking in. Various approaches were discussed before a late-session compromise was passed. The short-term compromise involves shoring up the fund with general fund and liquor excise tax money, while slightly increasing eligibility standards for students, as a more permanent solution is developed.

In the end, the legislature passed and sent 91 bills to the governor; she vetoed 10 of them. In addition to the nearly 700 bills that were introduced, there was a slight increase in the number of proposed constitutional amendments introduced. The proposed amendments covered topics including increased qualifications for the secretary of public education, legalization of marijuana and increasing the state minimum wage.

Some members expressed concern that the increase in the number of proposed constitutional amendments was simply a means of avoiding a gubernatorial veto, but in the end, none of the more controversial proposals passed the legislature.

A number of other high-profile issues were considered by the legislature but, also, failed to pass. Among them was a new gaming compact for the Navajo Nation that would have allowed the nation to operate up to five casinos. The compact passed the house but died in the senate. A long-awaited vote on the nomination of the secretary of public education stalled in the Senate Rules Committee on a tie vote. Also, a proposal to spend some of the money from the land grant permanent funds for early childhood programs died in committee, as it had in the past.

The Highlights is an annual publication of the Legislative Council Service that summarizes much, but not all, of the legislative action during each session. The omission of certain legislation or issues should not be interpreted as an indication that those are not important; each is important to someone. Many issues in the Highlights defy single-topic categorization, so every effort has been made to organize and cross-reference the contents. A complete listing of bills that passed is included in the concordance located in Appendix E.

AGING AND DISABILITY

In addressing the needs of the state's most vulnerable populations, the legislature passed measures that expand access to services for those with brain injuries and increase public awareness and prevention of one of the most common health problems faced by the elderly.

According to a 2013 report issued by the state's Older Adult Falls Task Force, falls are the leading cause of injury-related deaths, hospitalizations and emergency department visits for the elderly, and New Mexico's older adult fall rate is the seventh-highest in the nation. Pursuant to House Joint Memorial 32 of the 2013 legislative session, the task force evaluated the state's public health efforts to prevent falls and recommended establishing a statewide community-based fall risk awareness and prevention program to reduce the significant public and private costs associated with older adult falls. House Bill 99 (Chapter 37) directs the Department of Health (DOH) to establish such a program.

By amending the statute that creates the Brain Injury Services Fund, House Bill 58 (Chapter 36) expands eligibility for services beyond those individuals with traumatic brain injury. Under a new definition provided in the bill, "brain injury" now includes an injury to the brain of either traumatic or acquired origin, including an open or closed head injury caused by an outside physical force, lack of oxygen, electrical shock, shaken baby syndrome, a toxic or chemical substance, near drowning, infection, a vascular lesion, a tumor or an event that results in either temporary or permanent impairments in one or more areas of the brain. The Human Services Department (HSD) estimates that this change in eligibility will increase by 550 individuals the pool of those served by the fund.

APPROPRIATIONS AND FINANCE

If job growth is a primary indicator of the health of a state's economy, New Mexico may be facing a weak economic outlook in the near future. Nationally, the U.S. is projected to generate 2.6 million new jobs in 2014, up from 2.2 million in 2013. The western region of the country will see much of that job growth, largely on the strength of the country's booming health care, energy and high-tech sectors; however, nearly 572,000 of those jobs will be added in just two states, Texas and California. New Mexico is projected to have an overall job growth of only 1.25%, trailing all of its western neighbors and tied with New Hampshire for the lowest projected job growth. New Mexico's post-recession economic recovery is lagging behind other states, and the recovery is clearly hampered by the lack of jobs. In particular, private-sector job growth has proved to be an obstacle for the Land of Enchantment, and only Nevada has more workers who are involuntarily employed part-time or are unemployed but seeking employment. Adding to the problem is the fact that the state has a history of high reliance on public-sector jobs, both state and federal. In New Mexico, government-financed jobs account for nearly 32% of non-farm payroll jobs. Because both state and federal employment have been reduced in recent years, New Mexicans have felt the impact associated with the reductions. Not all job projections are dismal; most sectors are slowly adding jobs, and the brightest spots for job growth in the state are: mining; oil and gas production; technology; tourism; and transportation.

Much of the state's economic sturdiness derives from its vast oil and gas resources. Additionally, New Mexico continues to benefit from strong revenue growth with higher-than-expected federal mineral leasing revenues and mineral production taxes. On another positive note, the state's taxable gross receipts, generally accepted as a broad-based measure of economic activity, were up 4.8% for fiscal year (FY) 2014 over the previous fiscal year. The general fund revenue accruals representing taxes in FY 2014 all trended upward, except for personal income tax, which is projected to drop by 2.4%.

Even with a 1.6% decrease of general fund revenue in FY 2013, general fund reserves held strong at 11.9% of recurring appropriations. This was, at least in part, due to restraint in recurring spending growth in FY 2013. The December 2013 consensus general fund revenue group estimated FY 2013 total recurring revenue at $5.71 billion, a modest increase of nearly $97 million or slightly less than 2% greater than August's preliminary estimate. The consensus group projected total FY 2014 recurring revenue of $5.86 billion, with estimated recurring appropriations at $5.893 billion, resulting in a $30 million shortfall, and projected reserves of $5.83 million or 9.9% of recurring appropriations. The estimate also projects that in FY 2015, the state will have $292 million in "new money", generally the difference between current fiscal year recurring revenue and the next fiscal year's projected recurring revenue.

General Appropriation Act

As is the case every year, there was considerable debate and discussion among legislators on how to appropriate the state's money. Much of that discussion focused on the state's education dollars and how they should be appropriated and allocated. In the consideration of the General Appropriation Act (GAA) of 2014 in both the house and the senate, some legislators advocated for as much funding as possible "above-the-line" and other legislators and the executive advocated for increased public education funding "below-the-line". Above-the-line appropriations are distributed through the public school funding formula to all school districts and charter schools, allowing local boards of education to make policy decisions about expenditure of those funds, while below-the-line appropriations are categorical and must be expended specifically to the named recipient on those specific issues described in the appropriation with no local board discretion. The initial GAA bill – House Appropriations and Finance Committee Substitute for House Bills 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 – failed to pass the house on a 34-34 tie vote. With time running out in the short session and no agreement in the house on how to move the budget forward, the senate introduced Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 313 (Chapter 63, p.v.) (Senate Bill 313) as the 2014 GAA. Although each year's general appropriation act is typically introduced in the house, introduction and initial passage in the senate is not unprecedented. In addition to this year's bill, since 1999, a general appropriation act has originated in the senate five times. Senate Bill 313 passed both the house and the senate and was sent to the governor.

The 2014 GAA appropriates general fund money, other revenue, internal services funds, interagency transfers and federal funds for FY 2015 for the operation of state agencies, the state's higher education institutions and its public schools. The act provides recurring general fund appropriations totaling $6.1 billion, an increase of a little more than 4%, or $240 million, over the previous year's act. General fund reserves are left at just over 9% of recurring appropriations, very nearly the reserves balance of 10% recommended by the Legislative Finance Committee (LFC).

GENERAL FUND APPROPRIATIONS
Fiscal Year 2015
$6,135,571,480

<sup>(b)</sup> Other Education, Public School Support

◆ Public Schools

As is historically the case, public schools will receive the lion's share, roughly 43%, of general fund money. The appropriation of about $2.6 billion, after a "sanding" provision of a 0.275% reduction is implemented, represents an increase of approximately 4.4% over the FY 2014 appropriation. The appropriation includes money for 3% pay increases for teachers, licensed education assistants, transportation employees and other public school staff. Although the legislature also included minimum salary adjustments for the state's public school teachers, the governor vetoed adjustments for level two and level three teachers, leaving only an increase for level one teachers from the current beginning minimum salary of $30,000 to a new minimum of $32,000.

In an effort to address continuing fiscal problems in the state's small school districts needing emergency supplemental funding, the legislature included $5.8 million in the 2014 GAA appropriation for public schools, contingent upon the enactment of House Bill 35 (discussed in the Education section), which amends a section of the Public School Finance Act to create a new factor in the public school funding formula.

New Mexico's Native American public school students will benefit from the general fund appropriation for the Indian Education Act, which includes money for recruiting recent college graduates and professionals who have demonstrated achievement to teach in low-income urban and rural public schools for teaching support in schools with a high proportion of Native American students. Contingent on matching funds from other than state sources, the act provides money for a rural literacy initiative to support after-school and summer literacy block programs for students in kindergarten through eighth grade in schools with a high proportion of Native American students.

◆ Higher Education

Higher education and special schools will see an overall 4.4% increase from FY 2014, manifested in the $830 million appropriation, with the New Mexico Military Institute receiving the largest percentage increase of 25%. As in the 2013 GAA, the legislature is looking for positive outcomes from the state's institutions of higher learning, with an emphasis on student program completion rates and degrees awarded.

Of great importance to lawmakers was the state's financially endangered legislative lottery scholarship program financed through the Lottery Tuition Fund. The fund's balances remain shaky after prolonged periods of reduced lottery ticket sales combined with steep hikes in tuition. The Higher Education Department (HED) will receive $2.9 million as needed to ensure that, in FY 2015, students who are eligible and have already received three or more semesters of lottery scholarship receive scholarship awards covering the full cost of their tuition in FY 2015. Additionally, the legislature provided $11.5 million to supplement the Lottery Tuition Fund, contingent upon the enactment of legislation specifically addressing the solvency of the Lottery Tuition Fund. Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 347 (discussed in the Education section and the Taxation section) makes changes to the existing scholarship program and, beginning in FY 2016, creates a distribution from the general fund portion of liquor excise tax revenues.

◆ Health, Hospitals and Human Services

Based substantially on an expected reduction in the state dollars required for Medicaid support – at least in part due to Medicaid expansion, which will provide a 100% match in federal Medicaid dollars for newly eligible participants – the 2014 GAA actually decreases general fund dollars for Medicaid and Medicaid behavioral health services. Under Centennial Care, a redesign of the state's Medicaid plan, hospitals receive a Medicaid base rate increase, and nearly all counties are required to contribute to a pool used to obtain matching federal funds for payments to qualifying hospitals. A full discussion of this new requirement, enacted in Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bills 268 & 314 and Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 368, appears in the Health and Human Services section.

◆ Public Safety

Programs and operations related to public safety will see slight increases in funding, with a 7.4% increase to the Department of Public Safety (DPS). The Corrections Department receives $1.5 million for inmate education services. Money is also provided for 3% pay increases for corrections officers, probation officers and parole officers. The money is appropriated to continue the FY 2013 pay increases using funds saved from vacancies.

◆ Judicial

Section 5 of the 2014 GAA includes a special appropriation to cover an increase in the employer contribution for judicial pensions "to improve the funded ratio of the Judicial Retirement Fund". Concerns over the long-term solvency of this fund and the fund for magistrate retirement were the impetus for the increases in both employer and employee contributions that were included in legislation ultimately passed and signed into law this year. These concerns notwithstanding, the governor vetoed the special appropriation.

A full discussion of both the judicial and magistrate solvency measures appears in the Public Officers and Employees section.

◆ Other Appropriations and Transfers

Recognizing high vacancy rates and difficulties in recruitment and retention for certain job classifications in the state's agencies, Section 8 of the 2014 GAA includes general fund money for state workers' pay adjustments. After the governor's line-item vetoes related to pay increases for justices of the supreme court, other state judges, metropolitan court judges and magistrates, as well as district attorneys, attorney general employees, workers' compensation judges and executive exempt employees, the act provides for up to 5% pay increases for certain targeted positions, including commissioned law enforcement officers of the DPS. Also appropriated are a 3% pay increase for state classified employees and a 1.5% pay increase for faculty and staff at the state's post-secondary educational institutions.

Money is also provided in Section 8 of the 2014 GAA for prospective pay increases to satisfy the arbitration awards resulting from the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and the Communication Workers of America grievances regarding the state's implementation of Section 8 (A)(5) of the 2008 GAA, providing pay increases for state unionized employees. In August 2013, the New Mexico Court of Appeals found that the employees were entitled to back pay, upholding arbitration rulings that the state had improperly failed to pay agreed-upon salary increases for workers in 2009.

Interagency transfers provided in the 2014 GAA mandate that the internal service funds/ interagency transfers appropriations to the medical assistance program of the HSD include $1.3 million from the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund for the breast and cervical cancer treatment program and $7.9 million from the Tobacco Settlement Program Fund for Medicaid programs.

In Section 11, the 2014 GAA provides for an "Appropriation Adjustment", commonly referred to as a "sanding" provision. Under this provision, all general fund appropriations contained in Sections 4 (FY 2015 Appropriations) and 8 (Compensation Appropriations) of the act are reduced by 0.275%.

◆ Governor's Vetoes

The governor vetoed a number of provisions contained in the 2014 GAA, which are summarized in Table 3 of Appendix B. The governor's power to veto certain provisions is established pursuant to Article 4, Section 22 of the Constitution of New Mexico, which provides that the governor may "approve or disapprove any part or parts, item or items, of any bill appropriating money". The constitution additionally provides that while the parts or items approved by the governor shall become law, the disapproved items are void unless the veto is overridden by the legislature.

In interpreting the Constitution of New Mexico, the state's supreme court has established that the power of the governor's veto is a negative power, meaning the power to destroy or delete. The veto power does not include the power to strategically delete certain words or phrases in a manner that changes the intent of the original appropriation.<sup>1</sup>

New Mexico's appellate courts have also held that the whole of any unwanted appropriation item, including the funds, is eliminated when the governor's partial veto has the effect of enlarging the appropriation or distorting the legislature's intent. Case law further provides the extent to which the legislature may specify the manner and methods employed in the expenditure of appropriated state funds. Although the legislature's power to appropriate may include provision of certain specifics and contingencies related to an appropriation, it would not permit micromanagement of an executive or judicial agency through such an appropriation.

Feed Bill

House Bill 1 (Chapter 1, p.v.), also known as the "Feed Bill", appropriates $21.51 million from the general fund to the legislative department and various legislative agencies for expenditure in FY 2014 and FY 2015. Of that total, a $5.37 million appropriation provides for the operations of the 2015 legislative session. An appropriation of $16.14 million for FY 2014 and FY 2015 provides funding for interim activities and operational costs of the legislative agencies, including the Legislative Council Service (LCS), Legislative Education Study Committee (LESC), LFC, Senate Rules Committee, house and senate chief clerks' offices and Legislative Information System.

Public Finance

House Bill 223 (Chapter 15) limits the types of facilities that qualify for financing under the Convention Center Financing Act. Previously, "any facility" meeting the outlined criteria qualified as a "convention center". With the amendments made in House Bill 223, only civic centers and convention centers meeting the criteria qualify as convention centers for purposes of the Convention Center Financing Act.

Capital Outlay

The capital outlay process never ceases to provide a new way of tackling capital funding, with varying approaches winning out each legislative session. This year's version had the legislative and executive branches at opposite ends of a very large field until some agreement was reached in the final days of the session. Nevertheless, three capital outlay bills were produced: the 2014 Work New Mexico Act, which is the omnibus capital outlay bill; the 2014 Capital Projects General Obligation Bond Act; and the reauthorization bill. The bill that requires the most communication between branches is, of course, the omnibus bill. What was unusual this year was the difference between the pre-filed version of the omnibus bill and the final version, especially in relation to funding for "statewide projects" – projects that, in general, are owned by the state and that traditionally receive their capital outlay funding through agreement between the executive and legislative branches. Before the legislative session began, the governor announced that she wanted 60% of the available bonding capacity allocated to water projects; however, details on those projects, including how they dovetailed with legislators' requests, did not emerge until very late in the legislative process.

House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 55 (Chapter 66, p.v.), the 2014 Work New Mexico Act, authorizes $184,820,987 from the sale of severance tax bonds for capital improvement projects across the state. In addition, the bill appropriates more than $46 million from other state funds for statewide projects, including $11.3 million for water projects from two different funds and an array of projects from Department of Game and Fish funds, the Miners' Trust Fund, the State Lands Maintenance Fund and the Public School Capital Outlay Fund. Water project authorizations total nearly $73 million, more than any other category; the bill also authorizes $37.5 million for local government improvements across the state, $15.2 million for public schools and $18.5 million for improvements to the state's roads and highways. Project categories receiving the least funding include senior center improvements and acquisitions at $427,500 (major senior projects are included in the general obligation bond bill, discussed below); improvements to the state's museums and monuments at $905,500; and capital improvements on tribal lands at $4.3 million.

The governor's veto pen had faint ink this year, with vetoes totaling $2,583,600. Most heavily vetoed were local government projects at $1,109,600 and public school projects at $468,000. The governor also vetoed a handful of water and highway projects, improvement projects on tribal lands and several projects for judicial districts. Bernalillo County had the highest amount of vetoed projects, which totaled $1,219,600, followed by Rio Arriba County at $420,000 and McKinley County at $208,000.

Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 53 (Chapter 65) authorizes the issuance and sale of general obligation bonds totaling $166,998,790 and requiring approval by voters in the 2014 general election. The three questions that will appear on the ballot in November request funding approval for:

- ▶ senior citizen facility improvements, construction and equipment, for a total of $16,443,790;
- ▶ academic, public school, tribal and public library resource acquisitions, for a total of $10,800,000; and
- ▶ improvements and acquisitions at institutions of higher education, special schools and tribal schools, for a total of $139,755,000.

This year's reauthorization bill, Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 163

(Chapter 64, p.v.), reauthorizes and reappropriates balances from prior capital appropriations by changing the receiving agency, extending the expenditure period, expanding the purpose or changing the purpose of those appropriations. The governor vetoed two of the 59 reauthorizations contained in this bill; in those cases, the original appropriations remain intact.

Details for projects contained in the capital outlay bill, general obligation bond bill and reauthorization bill may be found in Appendix C.

New Mexico Finance Authority

As it has for the past several years, the legislature authorized the New Mexico Finance Authority (NMFA) to use money from the Public Project Revolving Fund to make loans in amounts of $1 million or more for infrastructure projects throughout the state. House Bill 12 (Chapter 13) enumerates the approved projects, and a list of the projects appears in Appendix B.

Senate Bill 31 (Chapter 52) appropriates $2 million from the Public Project Revolving Fund to the Local Government Planning Fund. The NMFA primarily uses money in the Local Government Planning Fund to make grants to qualified entities for feasibility studies, planning and energy audits.

A third NMFA bill was vetoed. Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 112 would have authorized loans and grants from the Water Project Fund and grants from the Acequia Project Fund, as similar bills in past sessions have done. Unlike bills in previous years, however, this bill also would have empowered the legislature to make some appointments to the Water Trust Board; changed the composition of the board; provided that legislative authorization for a Water Project Fund-financed project expires after one year; and imposed reporting requirements related to the Acequia Project Fund. The governor cited as a reason for her veto action that, in the process of becoming a substitute bill, the original bill was substantively changed "without any public testimony or input".

BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

As the state's economic recovery from the recent recession remains a work in progress, the legislature passed three bills to address business concerns and strengthen economic development efforts at the local and regional levels.

The One-Stop Business Portal Act, enacted in Senate Bill 9 (Chapter 20), modernizes and promotes more efficient interactions between business owners and state agencies. Pursuant to the act, the Department of Information Technology (DOIT) will set up and operate a web site that allows business owners, from a single point of entry through the One-Stop Business Portal, to access information, make payments and conduct other transactions related to taxation, workers' compensation and business licensing and permitting. The act requires the One-Stop Business Portal to be functional and available for public use by July 1, 2017.

Not only may contractors file a property lien for unpaid services, but real estate brokers may also file a property lien under certain circumstances. Under the Commercial Real Estate Broker Lien Act enacted in House Bill 185 (Chapter 38), a broker may file a notice of lien on a commercial property for unpaid brokerage service fees or commissions that were agreed upon in a written contract. The broker has two years after recording the notice of lien to file a lawsuit based on the lien.

The Economic Development Grant Act, enacted in House Bill 273 (Chapter 58), mandates the creation of an economic development program that would make grants to local and regional economic development agencies for hiring economic development professionals. Through the program, an agency may apply for a grant of up to one-half of the cost of adding one or more professionals to its staff. The Economic Development Commission will implement the program, select recipients and oversee the recipients' use of grant money. The original version of the bill contained a $3 million appropriation to the Economic Development Grant Fund, created in the act, to cover the grants called for in the program; however, the appropriation was not included in the version of the bill that was passed and signed into law.

CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

Children and families benefit from various measures signed into law from this session. In addition to a bill discussed below that helps families whose children may suffer from congenital heart defects, two bills were signed into law that address child custody issues – the Deployed Parents Custody and Visitation Act, which is discussed in the Military and Veterans' Affairs section, and Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 183, which is discussed in the Courts and Criminal Law section. Yet another bill requires sexual abuse education and prevention programs in the schools; this bill, House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bills 92 & 101, is discussed under the Public Schools subheading of the Education section.

According to testimony presented in 2013 to the Legislative Health and Human Services Committee, three out of every 1,000 babies born in New Mexico may be born with a congenital heart defect, and families often learn of the condition only after a child has died as a result of one. House Bill 9 (Chapter 7) attempts to provide families with notice of and a chance to correct such heart defects. It amends the Public Health Act to require that the DOH adopt a screening test for critical congenital heart disease, adding the disease to the list of other health conditions for which the department has devised newborn testing under this section of law. The test must be performed before an infant is discharged from the facility where the infant was born and be performed by means of a pulse oximeter, a device that measures oxygen saturation in arterial blood.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Although 36 amendments to the Constitution of New Mexico were proposed by various house and senate joint resolutions this session, only three managed to survive and will appear on the November 2014 ballot, along with two proposed constitutional amendments from the 2013 legislative session. The LCS publication Brief Analyses and Arguments For and Against the Constitutional Amendments, which contains explanations of all constitutional amendments to appear on the general election ballot, will be released in the summer of 2014.

Currently, candidates for judicial retention elections must file their declarations of candidacy at the same time as primary election candidates for other offices, even though retention election candidates are not subject to the primary election process. Senate Joint Resolution 16 (C.A. 3) proposes an amendment to Article 6, Section 34 of the constitution to remove this requirement, which would allow the legislature to determine the filing date for judicial candidates as it does for all other candidates for elected office in the state.

Senate Joint Resolution 22 (C.A. 4) proposes an amendment to Article 10, Section 10 of the constitution to allow counties with less than 1,500 square miles in area and populations of 300,000 inhabitants or more to become urban counties. It also clarifies that a majority of those voting on the proposal is needed for a county to adopt a charter making itself an urban county. Currently, only Bernalillo County meets the criteria that would allow it to become an urban county. An urban county would have all the powers that home-rule municipalities have.

House Joint Resolution 16 (C.A. 5) proposes an amendment to Article 12, Section 7 of the constitution to require that the State Investment Council invest and manage the land grant permanent funds in accordance with the Uniform Prudent Investor Act. The proposed amendment would also strike the provision that no more than 15% of the book value of the fund may be invested in international securities at any one time.

COURTS AND CRIMINAL LAW

The 2014 legislative session was fairly quiet in the criminal justice arena, with only a handful of bills signed into law. There was significant legislative support for funding to support the courts, but the two bills that passed concerning court funding were vetoed by the governor. There was no overarching theme to the bills that were chaptered concerning the courts or the criminal justice system – overall, the legislative session represented something of a hodgepodge in this area.

There were, however, two topics that generated significant debates, although no legislation emerged. The legislature considered following Colorado's model of legalizing marijuana, a continuation of the debate surrounding decriminalization of possession of small amounts of marijuana that was a feature of the previous legislative session. The legislature also debated a number of proposals addressing abuse of children and the reporting of child abuse – proposals that grew out of a series of high-profile child abuse cases in the state at the end of 2013 and the beginning of 2014.

Three bills relating to the courts were signed into law. The legislature created additional judgeships in House Bill 141 (Chapter 73) for the first, second, fifth and thirteenth judicial districts and created an additional magistrate in the Doña Ana magistrate district. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 183 (Chapter 69) provides for an immediate appeal of any order entered by the children's court during a custody hearing and requires the appeal to be expedited if the order appealed from grants or withholds legal custody of a child. The bill also codifies the right of immediate appeal of any order adjudicating a child neglected or abused, a right that had previously been recognized in case law but was not set forth in the Abuse and Neglect Act. House Bill 51 (Chapter 22) reduces the potential liability of agricultural enterprises by narrowing the exceptions in the Right to Farm Act for filing nuisance claims in court. The bill comes in response to several lawsuits claiming that certain dairy facilities were being operated in a manner that created a nuisance.

Two bills create new penalties under the law. New Mexico joins the majority of other states in prohibiting text messaging while driving. Senate Bill 19 (Chapter 5) makes "texting while driving" a penalty assessment misdemeanor. Certain conduct will still be permitted, such as using a global positioning system device while driving, pulling over to the side of the road to read or send a text message and composing a text message to summon emergency help. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 21 (Chapter 30) criminalizes the act of causing a safety hazard or disruption of communications and utilities services by theft of or intentional damage to communications or public utility equipment. The rising price of metals has resulted in widespread theft of copper wiring and other metals used by electrical power and telecommunications utilities. In addition to the potential hazard of electrocution, disruption of services poses a threat to public safety and significant monetary costs to utilities and their customers. The bill provides for punishment pursuant to misdemeanor sentencing for a first and second offense and fourth degree felony sentencing for a third and subsequent convictions.

EDUCATION

Article 4 of the Constitution of New Mexico specifies that, in a 30-day session, the legislature consider only measures related to fiscal matters, topics requested in special messages from the governor and bills from the immediately preceding regular session that were vetoed by the governor. Even with those restrictions, the wide variety of education-related bills introduced and determined to be germane for consideration in the 2014 legislative session was characteristic of a 60-day session. Legislators introduced at least five different versions of measures to address early interventions for students having difficulty learning to read. Other "hot topics" related to the health and well-being of students, with at least six measures introduced to allow school districts to make certain emergency medications available. The legislature also considered about a dozen bills proposing to modify teacher and administrator licensure requirements and even more to address the Lottery Tuition Fund shortfall. More than one-fourth of all substantive bills – legislation other than simple and joint memorials – introduced during the 2014 session addressed issues related to public and higher education. The same proportion was passed and signed into law.

Public Schools

In response to the recent lessening of fiscal pressure, House Bill 280 (Chapter 77) provides for a three-year phased return to statutory class sizes and teacher loads; waivers from these statutory requirements have been in place since the 2009 legislative session. The act does not affect the ability of a school district to apply for, and the Public Education Department (PED) to grant, a waiver pursuant to statutory requirements or any other waivers available to a school district. Charter schools have always been exempt from class size and teacher load requirements.

The legislature considered a number of bills relating to the physical and mental health and well-being of students, several of which were passed and signed into law. Senate Floor Substitute for Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bills 75 & 165 (Chapter 50) enacts the Emergency Medication in Schools Act, which allows each local school board or governing body of a charter school to obtain a standing order for and provide to schools within its jurisdiction a stock supply of albuterol aerosol canisters and spacers that have been prescribed by a health care practitioner employed or authorized by the DOH in the name of the school or school district. The measure also allows a local school board or charter school operator to obtain a standing order for and provide to its schools a stock supply of standard-dose and pediatric-dose epinephrine auto-injectors prescribed in the name of each school by a health care practitioner employed or authorized by the DOH. The bill requires the DOH to promulgate rules relating to the use of albuterol and epinephrine to treat students suffering from respiratory distress and anaphylactic reactions in schools. The act also provides that school policies and related laws comport with federal grant requirements regarding emergency medication in schools.

House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bills 92 & 101 (Chapter 9) is popularly known as "Erin's Law" after an activist who started a movement to pass a law in every state requiring that children in all grades be taught, through age-appropriate curricula, about sexual abuse and assault, how to prevent them and how to report them. The bill requires all licensed school employees to receive training on the subject and every health education course to include a section on the subject. It also requires the PED to develop evidence-based curricular standards in consultation with school district personnel, the HSD, the Children, Youth and Families Department, the DOH and the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Following another national movement, the "Breakfast After the Bell" program in House Bill 271 (Chapter 16) provides for breakfast served to students in classrooms after the school day starts for all students from kindergarten through high school. A proviso was added that breakfast for middle and high school students will start in the first school year after the legislature provides funding for those students. The General Appropriation Act of 2014, discussed in the Appropriations and Finance section, includes an appropriation of $1.9 million for breakfast for elementary students.

Senate Bill 307 (Chapter 70) and Senate Bill 122 (Chapter 71) address graduation requirements for students to qualify for the New Mexico diploma of excellence. The bills clarify that, once a student enters the ninth grade, the student's graduation requirements cannot be altered, allowing students to develop and implement their respective interim and final next-step plans without having requirements change in midstream. Additionally, the bills allow individual school districts to determine ways in which students may satisfy the requirement for one unit of physical education, which may include a program that meets state physical education content and performance standards such as marching band or junior reserve officers' training corps. The two bills differ slightly: Senate Bill 307 also allows satisfaction of the physical education requirement through performance of "other co-curricular activity", while Senate Bill 122, which the governor signed last, instead allows participation in "interscholastic sports sanctioned by the New Mexico Activities Association". Because both bills included emergency clauses and became effective upon the governor's signature, the new provisions apply to students graduating in the class of 2014.

The New Mexico diploma of excellence may become even more valuable for students who are proficient in speaking and writing in English and another language. House Bill 330 (Chapter 46) provides for a state seal of bilingualism-biliteracy to be added to a diploma to indicate that the recipient is certified proficient for meaningful use in college, in a career or to meet local community language needs in a language other than English. School transcripts will also indicate that the graduate received the state seal on the graduate's diploma. The measure requires the PED, in consultation with a task force of language experts, to adopt rules to establish the criteria for students to qualify to earn the seal in consultation with a task force of language experts.

The term "GED" is a registered trademark that has generally referred to something similar to "general education diploma" or "general equivalency diploma", i.e., a program to offer adults who did not graduate from high school the opportunity to earn a recognized high school equivalency diploma. The GED Testing Service is a joint venture between Pearson Education, which is a British multinational conglomerate, and the American Council on Education that offers adults the opportunity to earn a high school equivalency credential. Historically, more than 18 million Americans have earned a high school equivalency credential through GED®. Senate Bill 44 (Chapter 31) allows for provision of state-approved alternatives for those seeking a high school credential while retaining the use of the GED® as one of the options. The term "high school equivalency credential" replaces multiple varying terms in statute.

Public School Finance

The legislature passed and the governor signed two bills that make changes to the public school funding formula. The first bill, House Bill 19 (Chapter 55), effective July 1, 2015, increases the funding formula at-risk index multiplier by about 16% and includes additional specific reporting requirements. Noting that the change does not go into effect until FY 2016, the governor line-item vetoed language in the General Appropriation Act of 2014 that allocates $15.2 million in state equalization guarantee funding to pay for the increase in the additional units generated by the at-risk factor increase.

The second funding formula bill, House Bill 35 (Chapter 57), addresses the problem of long-time inadequate formula funding for "micro" districts with enrollments of 200 or fewer students by enacting a change in the public school funding formula to provide a special size adjustment multiplier for these small school districts. The districts must, in return, implement practices to reduce scale inefficiencies by such methods as entering into administrative service agreements with other districts and using distance education to increase course offerings for students. Currently, as many as 19 of New Mexico's 89 public school districts have enrollments under 200. While size adjustment factors in the funding formula for small school and small district sizes help some districts with enrollments of fewer than 1,000 students, these "micro" districts have been forced to request emergency funding from the PED each year – in some cases for more than 10 years – to be able simply to open their school doors, thereby negating the inherently temporary nature of an emergency. PED data indicate that, over the past 10 years, the size of the yearly "emergency" appropriation has been as little as $2.6 million and as much as $11.9 million. The General Appropriation Act of 2014 includes nearly $5.8 million to cover the cost of the initial units generated by this formula change in FY 2015 and just under $2 million in emergency supplemental funding.

Public School Capital Outlay

The purpose of the Public School Capital Outlay Act is to ensure that, through a standards-based process for all school districts and qualifying charter schools, the physical condition and capacity, educational suitability and technology infrastructure of all public school facilities in New Mexico meet an adequate level statewide. Senate Bill 159 (Chapter 28) amends the Public School Capital Outlay Act to allow the Public School Capital Outlay Council (PSCOC) to expend up to $10 million from the Public School Capital Outlay Fund each year from FY 2014 through FY 2019 for an education technology infrastructure deficiency correction initiative. Chapter 28 defines "education technology" as "the physical hardware used to interconnect education technology equipment for school districts and school buildings necessary to support broadband connectivity as defined by the council". Amendments to the Public School Capital Outlay Act in Chapter 28 require the PSCOC, working with the PED and the DOIT, to establish minimum statewide adequacy standards for education technology infrastructure, a methodology for prioritizing projects to correct deficiencies and a methodology for determining a school district's share of the project costs by September 1, 2014.

The PED has adopted national Common Core State Standards that will go into effect in the fall of 2014. Student performance will be assessed through the computer-based Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers (PARCC). The PED estimates that it will cost the state approximately $8.4 million to purchase computers needed to administer the PARCC assessment, an estimate that does not include other technology infrastructure needs. Language in Chapter 28 requires Public School Capital Outlay Fund awards to be used only for education technology infrastructure. The 2014 Work New Mexico Act, which is discussed under the Capital Outlay subheading of the Appropriations and Finance section, also includes a $5 million appropriation from the Public School Capital Outlay Fund to be used for education technology associated with implementation of the PARCC assessments.

Public School Transportation

During both the 2012 and 2013 legislative interims, the LESC established a subcommittee of LESC members, school district transportation personnel, representatives from the PED and other interested parties to examine, among other issues, concerns about transportation cost differentials applied to small districts (with fewer than 1,000 students), allowing emergency use of transportation funds to pay for increases in fuel costs and the effect of student migration on transportation boundary agreements and to make recommendations to the LESC for transportation legislation. Of seven bills endorsed by the subcommittee, two passed and were signed into law: House Bill 156 (Chapter 23), which allows fuel price increases to be considered a transportation emergency; and House Bill 157 (Chapter 74), which creates the School Transportation Training Fund to allow for appropriate tracking and expenditure of funds that school districts pay the PED for various training activities.

Post-Secondary Education

Of primary importance for the 2014 legislature was enactment of a "fix" for the depletion of funds for lottery tuition scholarships. According to the HED, between the fall of 1997 and the spring of 2013, nearly $504 million in lottery tuition scholarships were awarded to more than 90,000 students and, according to New Mexico Lottery Authority data, 38,000 recipients of a lottery tuition scholarship have graduated with a degree within six years of enrolling.

With steep increases in tuition costs, an increasing number of students applying for the scholarships and reduced lottery ticket sales, the Lottery Tuition Fund was projected to become insolvent during the current fiscal year, FY 2014. In an effort to balance the goals of the lottery tuition scholarship program with the need for fund solvency, the legislature enacted Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 347 (Chapter 80, p.v.).

Chapter 80 amends the law to categorize high school and college students as either "legacy" or "non-legacy" students. "Legacy" students have completed three consecutive semesters under the Legislative Lottery Tuition Scholarship Act and will continue to be eligible for the scholarship as long as they maintain a 2.5 grade point average and successfully complete 12 credit hours per semester. "Non-legacy" students include both high school students as well as college students who have not yet successfully completed three consecutive semesters. "Non-legacy" students attending a two-year higher education institution are required to complete successfully 12 credit hours a semester; those attending a four-year higher education institution are required to complete 15 semester hours for up to seven semesters.

Chapter 80 provides $11 million from the Student Financial Aid Fund of the HED to shore up the Lottery Tuition Fund and, beginning in FY 2016, creates a new distribution from liquor excise tax funds of 39% of the net receipts from the liquor excise tax in FY 2015 and FY 2016.

In the event the Lottery Tuition Fund contains insufficient funds and the amount of each scholarship award will not cover the full cost of tuition for qualified students, including legacy students, the HED is required to determine the uniform percentage, per institution sector, of tuition costs to be covered by scholarship funds, based on the amount in the Lottery Tuition Fund. The HED is also required to maintain a $2 million minimum balance in the fund.

Among other higher education-related measures, House Bill 215 (Chapter 76) amends the Education Trust Act to add a member to the Education Trust Board; provide for third-party managers; clarify that liabilities and contractual obligations of the Education Trust Board are not obligations of the state or any of its funds; and exempt a college savings account from all claims of creditors of the account owner, the beneficiary or the board. The new law abolishes prepaid tuition contracts in favor of a college savings program that allows interested persons to enter into college investment agreements as a means to save for a beneficiary's college education.

Senate Bill 158 (Chapter 12), a "dual credit parity" measure, defines the term "dual credit course" to include a post-secondary course that may be an academic or career-technical course, but excludes a remedial or developmental course; defines "dual credit program" to be a program offered in a public post-secondary educational institution or tribal college specified in rule; defines "high school" to include a home school; and defines "eligible dual credit student" to be a school-age person as defined in the Public School Code.

Senate Education Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 206 (Chapter 62) provides for the waiver of tuition and fees at public post-secondary educational institutions for students who have been in the foster care system or in the legal custody of a New Mexico Indian nation, tribe or pueblo or the federal Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Senate Bill 81, which is discussed in the Utilities section, provides an exemption from renewable energy cost-recovery charges for certain educational institutions created in the Constitution of New Mexico.

Other Education

House Bill 182 (Chapter 51) transfers the functions, appropriations, money, contractual obligations and other property, powers and duties related to the administration of the Apprenticeship Assistance Act from the Instructional Support and Vocational Education Division of the PED to the Workforce Solutions Department (WSD) effective July 1, 2014. The measure also reduces the size of the Apprenticeship and Training Advisory Committee by eliminating two of the former PED members and replacing them with the WSD's state apprenticeship director to serve as chair.

Related Bill

Senate Bill 81 - renewable energy cost-recovery charge exemptions - see Utilities

ELECTIONS

Relatively few measures were introduced during the session regarding the election process. Three bills were passed and signed into law – one that reduces the amount of funding for the public financing of election campaigns and two that address filing deadlines for candidates and political parties. A fourth measure – Senate Joint Resolution 16 – proposes an amendment to the Constitution of New Mexico regarding judicial retention elections and is discussed in the Constitutional Amendments section.

In response to a federal court ruling that held that the April petition filing deadline for newly qualified minor parties was unconstitutional, the legislature passed Senate Rules Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 125 (Chapter 81) and House Voters and Elections Committee Substitute for House Bill 328 (Chapter 40) to move the filing deadline for minor parties to 23 days after the primary election. The bills also standardize filing dates for other candidates, address a conflict with the state constitution on the filing date of judicial retention elections and create a minor party candidate petition form that is consistent with the major party and independent candidate forms set forth in statute.

House Bill 144 (Chapter 2) reduces the amount of funds that are deposited into the subaccount for Public Regulation Commission (PRC) elections in the Public Election Fund from $300,000 to $200,000 by eliminating a $100,000 distribution to that subaccount from collections of the insurance premium tax.

Related Bill

GAMING

The proposed Tribal-State Class III Gaming Compact between the Navajo Nation and the state received significant attention during the session. The proposed compact passed the legislative Committee on Compacts with a recommendation for approval, and a corresponding house joint resolution was introduced and passed in the house; however, it failed to pass in the senate. The current compact between the Navajo Nation and the state expires on June 30, 2015.

Horse racing also received attention from the legislature, with two bills aimed at addressing compliance and enforcement issues stemming from administration of the Horse Racing Act. Senate Bill 116 (Chapter 6) adds a new section to the Horse Racing Act that provides express authority for a licensed racetrack operator to exclude from a racetrack and its related grounds any person whose license to participate in horse racing has been suspended or revoked by the State Racing Commission for administering illegal performance-enhancing drugs to a racehorse.

A second bill, which was vetoed, would have amended hearing procedures for review of citations that can lead to suspension or revocation of a horse racing license.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

This year's legislation relating to health and human services covered a wide range of topics. Several bills that were signed into law relate to licensure of health care service professionals and entities, and others to health care services for infants and children. One bill promotes awareness and services for human trafficking victims. Bills that relate to services for elderly or disabled individuals are discussed in the Aging and Disability section. Senate Floor Substitute for Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bills 75 & 165, which is fully discussed in the Education section, enacts new sections of the Public School Code and the Public Health Act to allow public, charter and private schools to stock and provide or administer emergency medication to treat apparent respiratory distress or anaphylaxis in students.

House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Health, Government and Indian Affairs Committee Substitute for House Bill 126 (Chapter 14) provides for the regulation of pharmacy benefits managers – those entities that manage prescription drug benefits, procure the drugs and dispense the drugs to users. Pharmacy benefits managers serve as "middlemen" between drug manufacturers and distributors on the one hand and managed care organizations or insurers on the other. According to this act, a pharmacy benefits manager must be licensed and regulated by the Office of Superintendent of Insurance. This act establishes requirements for maximum allowable cost pricing, according to which pharmacy benefits managers charge pharmacies for certain generic drugs. The act also requires pharmacy benefits managers to follow certain guidelines in their contracts with pharmacies.

For many years, health care clinics, health plans and community organizations have employed community health workers, sometimes called promotoras, who provide direct services to clients aimed at optimizing those clients' access to and benefits from health care. These workers often come from the communities in which they work to promote health in a variety of ways, and they are qualified in part on the basis of their knowledge of the experience, language and cultures of their clients. Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 58 (Chapter 49) provides for DOH certification of community health workers, and thus makes these workers eligible for reimbursement from a number of payor sources, including Medicaid. This act also requires criminal history background screening for community health workers.

The rate of infant mortality among African American New Mexicans is substantially higher than for any other population – 10.6 per 1,000 live births in a recent three-year period compared to 5.8 per 1,000 live births of all other races and ethnicities. The reasons for this phenomenon are not known at this time, partly because the available data are minimal. To provide services to reduce African American infant mortality in the state and address the need for related data, Senate Bill 69 (Chapter 68) directs the Office on African American Affairs to conduct a one-year pilot program providing pregnant mothers and newborns with "centering" services that are known to address some of the risk factors for infant mortality and enhance health during pregnancy. The Office on African American Affairs is directed to establish benchmarks and collect data to measure the pilot program's success and to report by November 1, 2015 to the governor, the secretary of health and the Legislative Health and Human Services Committee on the program's outcomes.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 98 (Chapter 47) establishes criminal history background screening for emergency medical service providers whose criminal histories are currently obtained by self-reporting. It also authorizes the DOH to exchange fingerprint data with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the DPS and any other law enforcement agency or organization.

The state continues to have a shortage of nurses, even though almost every community college offers licensed practical nursing and registered nursing degrees, as do some of the universities. As a means to help alleviate the shortage, Senate Bill 119 (Chapter 3) requires the Board of Nursing to expedite licensure in New Mexico, from July 1, 2014 through June 30, 2019, for nurses licensed in another state. The law covers licensed practical nurses, registered nurses, certified nurse practitioners, certified registered nurse anesthetists and clinical nurse specialists.

Centennial Care, the state's redesigned Medicaid plan, eliminates supplemental payments to hospitals under the sole community provider program. With the exception of Bernalillo County, New Mexico counties were previously allowed to levy a county indigent health care tax to be used as each county saw fit to support the Sole Community Provider Fund, as well as county Medicaid and non-Medicaid indigent health care. Under Centennial Care, the state will give hospitals a Medicaid base rate increase. All counties, except Bernalillo and Sandoval counties, are now required to contribute to a safety net care pool fund to be used to obtain matching federal funds from which payments will be made to qualifying hospitals. Senate Public Affairs Committee Substitute for Senate Bills 268 & 314 and Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 368 (Chapter 79, p.v.) requires a county, as defined in the Indigent Hospital and County Health Care Act, to dedicate an amount equal to a gross receipts tax rate of one-twelfth percent to the Safety Net Care Pool Fund beginning July 1, 2014. To provide funds for this required dedication, the counties are authorized to impose an additional excise tax of one-sixteenth percent or one-twelfth percent of the gross receipts in each county until July 1, 2017. The authorization to impose the additional excise tax is not subject to referendum. The governor vetoed provisions in the bill that would have:

- ▶ allowed counties to use a county health care assistance fund to pay for all or a part of insurance premiums, copayments and deductibles for indigent patients;
- ▶ required qualifying hospitals to provide financial counseling to patients about hospital bills, required that the hospitals make reasonable efforts to determine whether patients are eligible for financial assistance before sending bills to collection and prohibited collections actions against patients with household incomes below 200% of the federal poverty level; and
- ▶ limited the time frame for the mandatory dedication of county funds to the Safety Net Care Pool Fund to three years.

Section 61-6-35 NMSA 1978 of the Medical Practice Act would have terminated the New Mexico Medical Board on July 1, 2015 pursuant to provisions of the Sunset Act. House Bill 152 (Chapter 44) repeals this section of the Medical Practice Act, thus extending indefinitely the life of the board.

House Bill 181 (Chapter 75) promotes awareness of services available for human trafficking victims. It requires health facilities, employers and certain state agencies to post a notice on human trafficking that provides victims of human trafficking or those who know such victims with local and national contact numbers to obtain assistance for victims.

INSURANCE

The one insurance-related measure from the session that was signed into law, Senate Bill 56 (Chapter 59), makes numerous revisions to the New Mexico Insurance Code to conform with model laws updated by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners. Such updated model laws have received broad-based approval from government regulators, insurance industry representatives and consumer advocates. Notably, the bill:

- ▶ clarifies that health care organizations are subject to risk-based capital requirements;
- ▶ introduces a risk-based capital "trend test", which monitors the capital levels of unprofitable property and casualty insurers and health organizations, and revises the trend test for life insurers;
- ▶ creates more opportunity for insurers to get credit for using reinsurance;
- ▶ allows insurers to organize or acquire a subsidiary business;
- ▶ allows insurers to do business in other states without additional scrutiny and costs, provided that they are licensed in those states;
- ▶ requires a company potentially acquiring an insurer to submit an analysis of its groupwide exposure to risk;
- ▶ establishes standards for determining whether acquisition of an insurer would materially lessen competition in New Mexico;
- ▶ allows the superintendent of insurance to join other insurance regulators in supervising multistate and international insurers;
- ▶ introduces "principle-based" reserving in life insurance reserve valuation;
- ▶ clarifies how quarterly premium tax estimates are calculated; and
- ▶ excludes insurers that offer health care plans and prepaid dental plans from the list of member insurers in the Life and Health Insurance Guaranty Association Act.

MILITARY AND VETERANS' AFFAIRS

Several appropriations from this session were signed into law that benefit and honor veterans and members of the armed forces. The year's omnibus capital outlay bill, which is discussed under the Capital Outlay subheading in the Appropriations and Finance section, includes appropriations for local and regional veterans' cemeteries around the state. The general appropriation act, which is discussed in the Appropriations and Finance section, doubles the remuneration for individuals who serve as honor guards at military funerals. In addition to these appropriations bills, one substantive bill affecting military service members was signed into law after several failed attempts in previous sessions – a bill to ensure that a military parent's deployment will no longer prejudice the parent's custodial rights.

In each of the past five regular sessions, bills were introduced to protect deployed members of the military from having custodial rights to their children impacted by their deployments, but none of them became law. Under the Deployed Parents Custody and Visitation Act, enacted in Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 130 (Chapter 4), courts shall not consider a parent's past deployment or possible future deployment in itself when determining the best interest of the parent's child in a proceeding for custodial responsibility. In addition, the act establishes procedures for notice of deployment and temporary agreements granting custodial responsibility during deployment, and it requires expedited court hearings for motions to grant custodial responsibility before a parent deploys.

MOTOR VEHICLES AND TRANSPORTATION

Although there were many bills relating to motor vehicles and transportation this year, only two measures were approved by the legislature and signed into law – one concerning commercial driver's license testing and the other concerning special registration plates for certain veterans.

Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 41 (Chapter 67) allows the Motor Vehicle Division of the Taxation and Revenue Department (TRD) to authorize another entity to administer the skills test or knowledge test required for a New Mexico resident to receive a commercial driver's license. Applicants for a commercial driver's license who do not pass can take the knowledge test no more than twice per week and the skills test no more than three times per year.

A veteran who has been awarded a Purple Heart Medal is eligible under statute to receive special registration plates at no fee for up to two vehicles. Senate Bill 154 (Chapter 42) amends Section 66-3-414 NMSA 1978 to remove the two-vehicle limit for veterans who have received more than two Purple Heart Medals, allowing an additional special registration plate for each additional Purple Heart Medal awarded.

NATURAL RESOURCES

The year's sole bill concerning natural resources amends the New Mexico Mining Act. Under that act, the Mining Commission may allow a mining permit holder to file for release of the permittee's financial assurance. Senate Conservation Committee Substitute for Senate Bills 80 and 95 (Chapter 32) removes language that limited such filings to only one per year for each mining operation. The bill also requires that the commission adopt new rules pursuant to the new provision no later than January 15, 2015. Such rules shall address the frequency for intervals at which permittees can request release of their financial assurances.

PROFESSIONAL AND OCCUPATIONAL LICENSURE

The legislature continued to take an active role in regulating professions and occupations. In 2014, legislation signed into law brings the state into compliance with federal law concerning real estate appraisers, provides reciprocity for real estate brokers licensed in other states to practice their trade in New Mexico and tightens requirements for bail bondsmen licensure. In addition to the bills discussed below, several bills specific to licensure within health care professions are discussed in the Health and Human Services section.

In 2010, the U.S. Congress enacted the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, which amended Title 11 of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989. Consequently, New Mexico's Real Estate Appraisers Act became inconsistent with federal law. Senate Bill 110 (Chapter 33) brings New Mexico statutes back into compliance with federal requirements. The bill changes definitions and terms in the real estate appraisers licensing law and provides standards for appraisal management companies and trainees. It also provides for an appraisal subcommittee, uniform standards of appraisal practice and establishment of registration fees.

Senate Bill 124 (Chapter 27) provides limited reciprocity with other states in real estate broker licensing. The bill allows a "foreign broker" – defined as someone licensed by another state or other sovereign nation – to act in the capacity of a New Mexico qualifying or associate broker if the foreign broker enters into a transaction-specific agreement with a New Mexico qualifying broker in a commercial real estate transaction. The bill also defines "nonresident licensee" and establishes further conditions for transactions by foreign brokers.

A bill concerning bail bondsmen, House Bill 50 (Chapter 21), makes changes to the Bail Bondsmen Licensing Law concerning both licensure requirements and rules for appearances in court. An applicant for bail bondsman or solicitor licensure pursuant to the licensing law must now be a high school graduate or have passed a high school equivalency examination, but the bar of a felony conviction has been removed. The bill also allows the superintendent of insurance to set the pre-licensing and license renewal educational requirements, while removing most of the requirements that had been specified in law, and requires that the New Mexico Supreme Court craft a rule to determine the conditions under which a bail bondsman or solicitor may appear in court without the assistance of an attorney without constituting the practice of law.

PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

The legislature resumed its focus from the previous session on the state's ailing pension funds, this time concentrating on the magistrate and judicial retirement funds by bringing forth separate initiatives to address short-term and long-term fund solvency issues. Bills not related to pensions include one that establishes personnel policies, procedures and administration in the Public Defender Department (PDD) and another that increases firefighter survivor benefits.

In 2013, the legislature passed comprehensive bills making significant and far-reaching changes to the defined benefit plans for members of the Public Employees Retirement Association (PERA), which covers state, county and municipal employees, and the Educational Retirement Board, which covers public school and public post-secondary educational institution employees. According to their respective actuaries, the funds associated with those plans are growing and trending toward solvency due, at least in part, to plan changes implemented upon enactment of the 2013 laws. However, similar laws were not enacted in 2013 regarding the judicial or magistrate retirement plan. While the legislature passed Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 25 in 2013 to address both of those pension plans, the governor vetoed the bill, contending that it did not go far enough to fix the plans' solvency problems, particularly those of the Magistrate Retirement Fund.

House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 33 (Chapter 35) addresses only the judicial retirement plan and mandates, for the first time, that all judges become members. As a consequence, all judges will be members of the retirement plan beginning July 1, 2014, and their respective employing courts will pay contributions into the retirement fund. Historically, most New Mexico judges already participated in the pension plan, but going forward, this statutory membership requirement will incrementally add to the solvency of the fund.

Other provisions in the bill create a new "tier" of judges – those who begin their initial terms of office on and after July 1, 2014. These judges will have a 3.5% multiplier, reduced from the current 3.75%. Future service credit for judges who became members prior to July 1, 2014 will be prorated at the 3.5% rate, resulting in a "blended" pension benefit upon retirement.

Prior to the enactment of the judicial solvency proposal, the PERA reported that the funded ratio of the Judicial Retirement Fund was 55.7%. Under the provisions of the legislation as it was originally proposed by the Administrative Office of the Courts, with an appropriation to the fund of $5 million, PERA actuaries projected an 80% funded level by the year 2036. However, because the appropriation was not included in the bill when it was introduced, and because the governor vetoed Senate Bill 304, which would have transferred funds to the Judicial Retirement Fund in lieu of using them in the Legislative Retirement Fund (discussed below), it is not yet projected how much the 2014 law will affect the fund's solvency.

The legislature introduced two magistrate retirement reform measures aimed at solvency.

Although initially different prior to being substituted, House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 216 (Chapter 39) and Senate Judiciary Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 160 (Chapter 43) were identical upon their enactment. Somewhat mirroring the changes in the judicial solvency legislation, the bills mandate that all magistrates be members of the magistrate retirement plan beginning July 1, 2014 and that the members, as well as their respective employers, pay contributions into the Magistrate Retirement Fund. This statutory requirement will have a greater cash-positive impact on the Magistrate Retirement Fund than that achieved by the membership requirement provided in the judicial solvency plan, mostly due to the dramatic increase in the magistrate membership. Currently, only a small percentage of magistrates participate in the retirement plan. After July 2014, that membership will significantly increase, as will inflows into the fund via employee and employer contributions.

Prior to the enactment of the magistrate solvency proposal, PERA actuaries determined that the Magistrate Retirement Fund had a funded ratio of 58.4%. Like the judicial solvency legislation, the magistrate bills create a new tier of magistrates – those who begin their initial terms of office on and after July 1, 2014. These magistrates will have a lesser, 3.25% multiplier.

Both the new judicial and magistrate laws require that members who are retired from another New Mexico state retirement system make refundable member contributions during their respective judicial or magistrate terms, and their cost-of-living adjustments will be suspended for the duration of their judicial or magistrate terms in office. In addition, new judges and magistrates will have an increased vesting period from five years to eight years.

A significant provision contained in each bill will also affect new judges and magistrates by changing survivor benefits. Previously, survivor benefit provisions permitted a member's spouse or other designated beneficiary to receive 75% of the member's pension benefit for the life of the beneficiary. Prior to the 2014 legislative session, several news editorials cast a spotlight on the negative impacts of those survivor benefits on the already poorly funded magistrate and judicial funds. Pursuant to the new law, new judges and magistrates will now be entitled to a reduced survivor benefit based upon the life expectancy of the named beneficiary. The new law will not affect benefits for the survivors of current judges and justices.

Senate Bill 304, which was vetoed by the governor, would have temporarily required that, with certain contingencies, money be transferred to the Magistrate Retirement Fund and the Judicial Retirement Fund instead of the Legislative Retirement Fund. The PERA reports to the Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) the amounts necessary to cover the legislative retirement plan payouts each year; the DFA then distributes money from the Tax Administration Suspense Fund to the Legislative Retirement Fund on a monthly basis. Pursuant to Senate Bill 304, during a 36-month period, $80,000 of that money would have been transferred each month to the Magistrate Retirement Fund and $20,000 would have been transferred to the Judicial Retirement Fund. The proposed transfers were intended to help jump-start the funded status of the two retirement funds.

House Judiciary Committee Substitute for House Bill 338 (Chapter 78) allows the Public Defender Commission to adopt personnel policies and procedures, including the development of public defender personnel rules, to establish an independent system of personnel administration for the PDD. The bill also mandates provision to PDD personnel the same minimal rights guaranteed under the Personnel Act and administrative rules applicable to state employees. This bill is an outgrowth of the constitutional amendment adopted in 2012 that created an independent PDD, and it builds on legislation passed in the 2013 legislative session that implemented the constitutional amendment.

Prior to the passage of House Bill 287 (Chapter 17), the surviving spouse or children of a firefighter who died in the line of duty would receive supplemental death benefits in the amount of $50,000. The bill increases the amount paid to firefighters' survivors from $50,000 to $250,000.

STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

In keeping with the constitutional restrictions imposed on topics that may be considered in a 30-day legislative session, many of the bills affecting state and local governments that were signed into law address either finances or taxation. A list of these bills and the sections where they are discussed appears at the end of this section. The remaining measures address housing authorities, disposal of property, sale of products manufactured in the state's corrections system and recordkeeping by land grants.

Organization

Senate Bill 71 (Chapter 60) amends the Municipal Housing Act to clarify that a municipality may create a housing authority as a body politic and separate from the municipality. A housing authority created by a municipality is its own entity, separate from the municipality and with its own fiscal responsibilities and liabilities, and does not act as the municipality's agent.

Property

In compliance with Section 13-6-3 NMSA 1978, which requires that sales of state property be approved by the legislature, House Joint Resolution 8 provides authority to the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department to sell its property on DeVargas Street in Santa Fe. The affected property includes a facility that once housed offices of the department's State Parks Division and the New Mexico Youth Conservation Corps; however, the department has since consolidated its offices and vacated this facility.

Senate Bill 182 (Chapter 29) allows the Corrections Industries Division of the Corrections Department to sell to the general public, twice a year, products that are manufactured pursuant to the Corrections Industries Act and valued under $300.

Land Grants

House Bill 42 (Chapter 72) promotes recordkeeping efficiency and public disclosure by permitting land grant-merced boards of trustees to file annual reports with the Land Grant Council. The council is tasked with keeping and storing the annual reports with the New Mexico Community Land Grant Registry that it maintains.

TAXATION

The legislature was cautious this session and passed relatively few bills that affect taxation. Several deductions from the gross receipts tax were enacted, as was an extension of net operating loss carryovers incurred from net income, which are purported to help new and growing businesses. Two bills related to taxation of natural gas and biodiesel were passed – one with the intent of eliminating a double taxation problem and the other with the intent of measuring natural gas as an equivalency of the energy produced by gasoline. While not directly affecting a particular tax, a bill affecting tax increment development districts was passed that may increase revenue yields from gross receipts taxes for districts formed after the recent economic downturn.

Tax Administration

House Taxation and Revenue Committee Substitute for House Bill 16 (Chapter 54) and certain provisions of Senate Finance Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 347 (discussed fully under the Post-Secondary Education subheading of the Education section) provide new distributions of the liquor excise tax to be made for three years. The house bill provides for a 46% distribution to the Local DWI Grant Fund, and the senate bill provides for a 39% distribution to the Lottery Tuition Fund. These distributions, when added to existing distributions of the tax, exceed 100% of the net receipts attributable to the liquor excise tax. The distributions provided in both bills will not begin until July 1, 2015.

Gross Receipts Tax

Two bills expand existing gross receipts deductions related to aircraft sales and services. House Bill 14 (Chapter 19) expands the deduction pursuant to Section 7-9-62 NMSA 1978 to include receipts from the sale of aircraft parts or maintenance services from any person. Previous law allowed only aircraft manufacturers or affiliates to take the deduction. House Bill 24 (Chapter 8) expands the deduction pursuant to Section 7-9-62.1 NMSA 1978 to include receipts from the sale of a commercial or military aircraft that has a landing weight greater than 10,000 pounds. Under prior law, the deduction was only for receipts from maintaining, refurbishing, remodeling or otherwise modifying these aircraft.

House Bill 32 (Chapter 56) temporarily expands the existing gross receipts deduction for certain medical and health care services to include receipts from payments from federal agencies for medical services provided by a dialysis facility to Medicare beneficiaries. The deduction is phased in over a three-year period beginning July 1, 2014, in one-third increments, and will expire on June 30, 2024.

Senate Bill 88 (Chapter 26) provides a new gross receipts and governmental gross receipts deduction for the sale or rental of durable medical equipment and medical supplies. The bill limits the type of taxpayer that is allowed to take the deduction to only those taxpayers that participate in the state's Medicaid program and whose gross receipts are at least 90% derived from the sale or rental of durable medical equipment, medical supplies or infusion therapy services.

Both of the two previous bills also require taxpayers that claim the deductions to meet the TRD's reporting requirements. The department is required to compile an annual report with respect to the total deductions approved and present those reports to the Revenue Stabilization and Tax Policy Committee every five or six years, depending on the deduction, with an analysis of the cost and effectiveness of the deductions.

Income Tax

Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bills 106 & 156 (Chapter 53) conforms New Mexico law with federal law and the laws of several surrounding states by extending net operating loss carryovers incurred from net income, reported for corporate or personal income tax purposes, from the current five-year period following a loss to a 20-year period for taxable years that begin on and after January 1, 2013. Losses incurred in 2013 or after can be applied for up to 20 years, but losses incurred prior to 2013 can only be applied for up to five years following the loss.

Fuel Taxes

Several changes to the treatment of natural gas are made to the Alternative Fuel Tax Act with the passage of House Bill 30 (Chapter 34). The bill amends the definition of "gallon" to change the measurement of a gallon of natural gas from a standard gallon liquid measure to a measurement of liquefied or compressed natural gas that has the same energy equivalence as a gallon of gasoline. A gallon of natural gas is now defined as 6.06 pounds of liquefied natural gas and 5.66 pounds or 126.67 standard cubic feet of compressed natural gas. The bill also provides for new tax rates for natural gas, beginning July 1, 2014, of $.206 per gallon of liquefied natural gas and $.133 per gallon of compressed natural gas. The bill eliminates the option of paying the alternative fuel excise tax by permit on an annual basis; the only remaining option is to pay the excise tax on a per-gallon basis.

To eliminate the double taxation of biodiesel when it is intended to be blended with petroleum diesel, House Bill 288 (Chapter 18) provides a deduction for the amount of pure biodiesel from the calculation of the petroleum products loading fee when the pure biodiesel is delivered to a rack operator for subsequent blending or resale by a rack operator. The deduction is intended to subject pure biodiesel to the fee only after it has been blended, but it will not affect how the fee on a load of biodiesel is calculated when it is used in its pure form as fuel in a motor vehicle.

Tax Increment Development Districts

With the enactment of Senate Corporations and Transportation Committee Substitute for Senate Bill 140 (Chapter 11), a tax increment development district may now reset its "base year", or the district's pre-formation year, for purposes of its gross receipts tax increment calculation when certain conditions are fulfilled. Tax increment development districts are formed to stimulate economic growth in a defined commercial zone – growth that can be fueled by diverting a portion of gross receipts tax revenue from the taxing authorities that otherwise would receive it and giving that revenue to a district. The amount of diverted gross receipts tax revenue, or gross receipts tax "increment", is calculated as the difference between: 1) the amount of gross receipts tax revenue generated during the district's pre-formation year; and 2) the amount of gross receipts tax revenue generated in a given year after formation. By resetting its base year, a district may improve revenue yields depressed by a post-formation economic slump.

UTILITIES

All three of the utilities-related bills that were signed into law this year address renewable energy. Two of the bills adjust reporting requirements, and the third expands an exemption from renewable energy cost-recovery charges imposed by utilities on their customers.

House Bill 232 (Chapter 24) and Senate Bill 49 (Chapter 25) change the date on which rural electric and distribution cooperatives must report to the PRC on their purchases or generation of renewable energy during the preceding year. The change to an April 30 reporting deadline allows these cooperatives more time to collect and evaluate their sales data prior to reporting.

The Renewable Energy Act provides for public utilities to acquire certain percentages of their electric power from renewable energy generators by certain dates. While the act allows the utilities to recover additional costs for those renewable energy procurements, it also exempts from those cost-recovery charges customers that are political subdivisions of the state, consume 20 million or more kilowatt-hours per year and own renewable energy generation. Senate Bill 81 (Chapter 41) expands the customers eligible for the exemption to include educational institutions that are created in the Constitution of New Mexico and have enrollments of 24,000 students or more on their main campuses. The University of

New Mexico, which meets the new criteria, owns its own renewable energy system.

WATER

Legislators introduced more than 40 bills relating to water policy or the financing of water projects and administration of the waters of the state. Two bills discussed under the New Mexico Finance Authority subheading of the Appropriations and Finance section provide authorization for funding infrastructure projects, including water projects. A third bill discussed under that subheading would have dedicated funding exclusively to water and acequia projects had it survived the governor's veto pen.

Two bills making substantive changes to water law did survive. House Bill 222 (Chapter 45) and Senate Bill 164 (Chapter 48) amend the Water-Use Leasing Act to allow the pueblos of Taos, Nambe, Pojoaque, Tesuque and San Ildefonso – all of which are parties to either the Taos or Aamodt water settlement agreements – to lease a water right secured pursuant to the agreements for a term of up to 99 years, including all renewals. This change to the water-leasing statutes is necessary to implement the provisions of the Taos and Aamodt settlements and does not apply to pueblos' water rights governed by the state law of prior appropriation.

* Sego v. Kirkpatrick, in explaining legislative-executive roles in the approval of a general appropriation act, states: "The power of partial veto is the power to disapprove. This is a negative power, or a power to delete or destroy a part or item, and is not a positive power, or a power to alter, enlarge or increase the effect of the remaining parts or items. It is not the power to enact or create new legislation by selective deletions. . . . Thus, a partial veto must be so exercised that it eliminates or destroys the whole of an item or part and does not distort the legislative intent, and in effect create legislation inconsistent with that enacted by the Legislature, by the careful striking of words, phrases, clauses or sentences." It could be argued that because of the manner of the veto, the money would not be available for use by the agency.
