SECTION III: NARRATIVE

BILL SUMMARY

Synopsis: House Bill 16 would increase penalties for trafficking fentanyl.

- 3 additional years for possession of 100 to 500 fentanyl pills, capsules, or tablets; or 10 to 50 grams of fentanyl powder.
- 5 additional years for possession of more than 500 fentanyl pills, capsules, or tablets; or more than 50 grams of fentanyl powder.
- 5 additional years if the person has recruited, organized, supervised, or financed another person to traffic fentanyl.

This is in addition to (and would not change) other existing charges related to conspiracy to traffic fentanyl.

FISCAL IMPLICATIONS

The Corrections Department may face additional budgetary impacts, depending on the outcomes of successful prosecutions and the resulting sentences, whether involving prison terms or community supervision. At the FY24 expenditure level, the average cost per inmate is $56,804 annually, or approximately $156 per day. Given current trends in inflation and rising operational costs, the future average cost per inmate will exceed the current estimate. Additionally, the average annual cost per individual on community supervision is $7,074.

SIGNIFICANT ISSUES

The amendment could positively impact a community by increasing the consequences for individuals involved in large-scale fentanyl trafficking, thereby deterring the distribution of fentanyl. The increase in sentencing signals a commitment to protecting public health and safety, potentially reducing overdose deaths.
