SUMMARY

Synopsis of Bill

Senate Joint Memorial 66 urges the Congress of the United States to name the federal courthouse in Santa Fe, New Mexico after United States District Court Judge Santiago E. Campos. The bill requires that a copy of SJM 66 be sent to all the members of the New Mexico congressional delegation.

Significant Issues

United States District Court Judge Santiago E. Campos was the first Hispanic appointed to the federal bench in New Mexico, serving from 1978 until his death in 2001, including as chief judge from 1987 through 1989.

Judge Campos served as a role model and mentor for other jurists and lawyers who benefited from his courtroom demeanor, wisdom and legal skill and knowledge.

Judge Campos' career of public service only culminated with his service as a United States District Court Judge, as he also served in the United States navy as a seaman first class from 1944 to 1946, as the assistant and first assistant Attorney General of New Mexico from 1954 to 1957, and as a district court judge from 1971 to 1978 in the first Judicial District in the state of New Mexico.

Judge Campos displayed firmness, compassion and inquisitiveness throughout his career as a judge.
