OTHER SUBSTANTIVE ISSUES

According to the NM Commission on the Status of Women, 30% of all New Mexico women between the ages of 19-64 are uninsured-the highest rate in the nation. Basic health care is essential to all areas of development for our state- unhealthy people are unable to hold jobs, attend school, or care adequately for their families. In addition study after study has indicated that early intervention and preventative medical health care help prevent death associated with diseases such as breast & cervical cancer, diabetes, and heart disease.
