SUMMARY

Synopsis of Bill

Senate Bill 358 appropriates $75,000 from the general fund to the Board of Regents of the University of New Mexico to continue the Indigenous Nations Library Program work, including

- expanding services provided by the tribal information project to all university of New Mexico campuses, especially to the Gallup campus;
- adding to the Native American collections and increasing the information resources at the university of New Mexico libraries;
- providing information and student assistance for the bachelor's degree in Native American studies;
- developing information-seeking and research skills of Native American students and

- increasing the success and retention of the university's Native American students.

FISCAL IMPLICATIONS

The appropriation of $75,000 contained in this bill is a recurring expense to the general fund. Any unexpended or unencumbered balance remaining at the end of fiscal year 2009 shall revert to the general fund.

This request was submitted by UNM to the New Mexico Higher Education Department for review, but is not included in the Department's funding recommendation for FY09.

SIGNIFICANT ISSUES

According to UNM, the Indigenous Nations Library Program (INLP) received legislative funding in four consecutive years with strong recommendation from the NM Department of Higher Education in 2007 for recurring funding as a proven program. INLP goals include recruiting, retaining, and ensuring the academic success of Native American students and fostering research on and about our state's rich Native American history and resources. Out-of-classroom learning opportunities are provided to the general public through a free Lecture Series. Major partnerships are being built with the UNM Campuses (especially Gallup), Native American Librarians Interest Group (NALSIG) and the NM State Library's American Indian initiatives.

The IAD states that this type of program is a continuation of efforts to ensure the success of the Native American community at UNM-Gallup. An example of the tremendous support UNM provides for its Native American students was that in the 2007 New Mexico Legislative Session, Native American student issues were among the "Legislative Priorities" for UNM. According to the University, funds were needed to "expand the capacity of the [Native American Studies] program to comprehensively serve the needs of New Mexico Native American students and communities through the development of exemplary undergraduate and graduate degree programs." SB 358 would keep with UNM's supportive and expressed institutional goal to "realize a vision of being the top university in the U.S. regarding Native American Higher Education."

DUPLICATION

Senate Bill 276, with duplicate language, would appropriate $200,000 for the same purpose.
